

BARR EASY VICTOR OVER MACKEY IN WRESTLING BOUT

BARR BEATS MACKEY
IN STRAIGHT FALLS

BIG DIFFERENCE IN WEIGHT

Winner About Fifteen Pounds the Heavier—Great Defense by Washingtonian.

The real Eddie Barr, middleweight Cincinnati wrestler, decisively beat Bob Mackey, the welterweight champion of the South, at Washington Light Infantry Hall last night.

Barr gained the first fall in thirty-seven minutes on a half nelson and knee lock. The second fall was gained in one minute by a knee lock and body hold.

It was one of the best matches seen in Washington in a long time, and, although Mackey lost, he did not suffer in prestige. Barr was known as a middleweight and says he can do 150 pounds when the purse makes it worth while to train hard, but last night he weighed about 165, and possibly more. Mackey weighed about 150, and as they were equally experienced, the difference in avoirdupois made a handicap which Mackey could not overcome.

Barr Always Behind.

Knowing that he was much the stronger, Barr did not indulge in any fancy business, but started to win as quickly as possible by straight nelson holds. When he had his man in a dangerous position he would get busy with his legs and help the cause along with the scissors. He was not exceptionally fast except when Mackey tried to assume the offensive, when he sprang like a dicky bird and went through a series of evolutions which invariably ended with Mackey again on the bottom. Barr is proud of his ability to keep behind his man, and was not going to allow a smaller opponent to turn the trick on him last night. As a result Mackey was not behind once in the proceedings.

Mackey has always been known as a clever man on the defense, but last night he was even better than usual. In the first bout he escaped from five or six desperate situations by his ability to turn suddenly. Twice when Barr had him within an inch or two of the mat with holds from the front he wriggled out of danger just as Referee Pat O'Connor had his hand raised to slap Barr on the back.

How Falls Were Gained.

The first fall was gained when it was largely because Mackey had become worn out with the steady, unceasing grueling at the hands of his burly opponent. His neck had been twisted into as many lines as a map of ocean currents, and ever and anon Barr had lifted him up and squashed him violently upon the mat, wherefore he was weary, and there was not much surprise when, at the end of a ground, mauling exhibition, Barr got the half nelson to work again, caught Mackey off his balance, and fell upon him for a fall. The time was thirty-seven minutes, but one minute had been taken for a rest when they had rolled off the mat ten minutes before.

As soon as they appeared for the second argument it was apparent that Mackey was all in, and that Barr was peevish. The Cincinnati man grabbed Mackey from the front and, after tussling for nearly a minute, Barr's foot suddenly shot out, Mackey's feet went in the air, and before it was realized what had happened the stronger of our midst had the local light squelched.

Guy Surprises Hoover.

Mackey constantly sought the edge of the mat when he saw breakers ahead and saved himself a number of times by this trick, as Referee O'Connor stopped the proceedings when either man's legs were over the sides of the platform, claiming that it handicapped the grappler with the waving props, and that was true, but it delayed the game. In the first preliminary a new aspirant for mat honors appeared in Ernest Guy. After a shrewd struggle he was thrown by Young Hoover because he did not keep his eye on his number. When they got together again Guy gave Hoover the surprise of his life by throwing him in two minutes and forty seconds with a half-nelson and a crotch hold. In their third meeting Hoover was more careful, brought his experience into play and won the fall and the match. Guy is wise, and will bear watching.

Spalding Beats Beckett.

Jack Spalding threw Cleve Beckett in 15 minutes, and again in 20 minutes in the semi-final. They were two good bouts, full of action, but Beckett, like Mackey, had a penchant for the edge of the mat and was roasted by the spectators. Spalding showed excellent form and will soon be appearing in star enclosures to uphold his claim to the featherweight championship of the District, which title, according to E. Lawrence Phillips, the gentlemanly announcer, rightfully belongs to Spalding. Beckett is a willing worker and, despite his little failing about crawling overboard when hard pressed, is becoming popular because of his unwillingness to be discouraged by a little thing like defeat.

Pat O'Connor sent an emissary to Baltimore yesterday to get Charles Weiss about matching Joe Grant with Barr. Weiss' answer was that Grant would take on the Cincinnati if he would make 150 pounds at 3 p. m. As Barr could not make that weight without a thorough course of typhoid fever and a few amputations, it is not likely there will be anything doing. Barr said he would make 150 pounds at 3 p. m. The baby racers worked quarters handily around twenty-four seconds.

TUCKER PREDICTS GOOD RACING.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 15.—After trying out eleven of sixteen yearling thoroughbreds he purchased at Summer sales for 1907 racing, Robert Tucker, who developed Accountant, the biggest money winner of the year, and other winners in the late S. S. Brown's stable, expressed himself as satisfied with his prospects for the next racing year. The baby racers worked quarters handily around twenty-four seconds.

Four Heats.

With E. E. Taylor's Forney and Everett T., and Larry McCormick's Mysotis tied with four heats apiece for the wagon which is offered as a prize by a local firm for the horse winning the most number of heats in the series of three matinees which is being run off on the New Potomac Speedway, under the auspices of the District Road Drivers' Association, interest in the two remaining attractions has considerably increased.

Charles McDermott's Rex Leader and for second money, with two heats apiece, are Ezzard T. and Bill McKinley. The latter having one to his credit.

Entries Coming Fast.

A few of the entries for next Tuesday's meeting have been sent in. They include practically all those which competed in last Tuesday's events, together with a number of others. The list does not close until Monday night, so the number for this week's card should be much larger than that of last week.

Among the most prominent of these are five races on the program, as follows: Free-for-all trot, 2:25; trot or pace, 2:40; trot or pace, 2:18; pace and free-for-all pace. The entries follow:

The card arranged for day after tomorrow is similar to the first. There are five races on the program, as follows: Free-for-all trot, 2:25; trot or pace, 2:40; trot or pace, 2:18; pace and free-for-all pace. The entries follow:

GARNER IS FINED
FOR ROUGH WORK

Stewards Tax Jockey $50
for Unfair Tactics at City Park Track.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 15.—The first week of racing on the City Park course has been a decided success.

A feature was the step taken by the stewards to put a stop to the rough riding which was rampant here last winter, and was far too often in evidence on metropolitan courses last summer. The fining of Garner $50, and the administering of the severe reprimand which the jockey received, may be productive of good results.

Rain Affects Attendance.

Rain affected everything today, including the attendance. The festivities in connection with the presentation of the dinner service to the battleship Louisiana were further responsible for the absence of many Saturday regulars.

Twenty-nine bookmakers were doing business, and if they had only been game to take money they would have reaped a harvest. The play was light on the first race, which was of the "shut in a handbag" order, but Dick Watkins, the well-known trainer, was one of the lucky ones, having $40 on Rose Marion at 20 to 1. Troxler on Spider Web went up in the stand to make a protest in this race, but was quickly dismissed.

The defeats of Athlete, the Burlew & O'Neill entry, and Wild Irishman, in their respective races, cost the big players and the public a lot of money. Before the races began Bob Tucker sold Athlete to Burlew & O'Neill, and that horse carried the pink and black colors. In the third race Athlete showed up prominently for a while, but died away. The winner, Goldie, belonging to Ed Corrigan, was thrown in the handicap at ninety pounds, and led all the way.

Burlew & O'Neill at last got beaten for big money, but it was a case of hard luck. If Fantastic had got off where her stable companion, Royal Breeze, did, she would have won the Test Stakes easily.

First race—Five furlongs. Rose Marion, 106 (J. Lee), 10 to 1, won; Spider Web, 108 (Troxler), even, second; Sister Ida, 109 (E. Austin), 5 to 1, third. Time, 1:04.4. Aunt Susan, Family Talk, Sulu, Sea Water, Addie Hawkins, Ida Bailey, Excuse Me, Enfin, Belle of the South, Skimmer, Isabel, Aintree, Reina also ran.

Second race—Steeplechase, short course. Sam Hoffheimer, 184 (Henry), 5 to 1, won; Harlequin, 106 (Ellen), 2 to 1, second; Profitable, 153 (Dayton), 4 to 1, third. Time, 3:13.4.5. Maverick, Gould, Henry A., Schroeder, Uncle James, Naram, Sceptre and Signal II also ran.

Third race—One mile. Goldie, 90 (Garner), 5 to 1, won; Besterling, 98 (Bliss), 3 to 1, second; Old Stone, 100 (L. Smith), 2 to 1, third. Time, 1:42.5. Orbicular, Lock, 107 (Mountain), 3 to 1, second. Granada, 110 (Perrett), 3 to 1, third. Time, 1:52.5. De Oro, Lally, Bertha E. and Juggler also ran.

Fourth race—Six furlongs. Charlie Eastman, 109 (Mountain), 7 to 2, won; Fantastic, 96 (J. Hennessy), 4 to 5, place, second; Royal Breeze, 94 (Garner), 3 to 1, third. Time, 1:32.5. De Oro, Lally, Bertha E. and Juggler also ran.

Third race—One mile and a sixteenth. Detar, 105 (Troxler), even, won; Scalplock, 107 (Mountain), 3 to 1, second; Granada, 110 (Perrett), 3 to 1, third. Time, 1:52.5. Quinn Brady, Chauncey O'cott and Yadd also ran.

Sixth race—Six furlongs. St. Noel, 109 (Keyes), 11 to 2, won; Woodclaim, 109 (Perrett), 5 to 1, second; La Cache, 99 (Pickens), 2 to 1, third. Time, 1:36.5. Orderly Consideration, Happy Jack, Monte Carlo, Bazil and Ingolthrift also ran.

Seventh race—Six furlongs. Columbia Girl, 105 (Van Dusen), 14 to 5, won; Wild Irishman, 112 (J. Hennessy), 1 to 2, second; Glen Gallant, 112 (Mountain), 2 to 5, third. Time, 1:17.5. Tom Mankins, Esterre and Beecher also ran.

Fourth race—Six furlongs. Balshat, 102 (Tucker), 102; Gentian, 107; Monterey, 107; Falkland, 107; Golden Flower, 107; Old Hal, 107; Frontenac, 110; Volney, 110; Belle Strome, 112.

Second race—Five furlongs, selling. Captain Hale, 95; Dick Shanley, 97; Sharonoway, 97; Gold Duke, 97; Baneful, 97; Vesee, 97; Kaiserhoff, 97; Joe Davis, 97; Spion, 97; The Piker, 97; Macstrom, 95; Belsay, 97; Gray Day, 100; Paragon, 100; Naville, 100.

Third race—One and one-sixteenth miles. Goldmate, 93; Granada, 93; James Reddick, 98; Lady Fonso, 99; Iole, 99; Envoy, 102; Jungle Imp, 102; Orbicular, 104; Alma Dufour, 105; Minnie Adams, 105; St. Valentine, 107.

Fourth race—Steeplechase, short course. Pitkin, 125; St. Volma, 125; The Thunderbolt, 130; Arab, 133; Parnassus, 133; Signal II, 133; Esterjoy, 125; Red Raven, 135; Little Wally, 139; Oliver Mc, 143; Gould, 145; Creolin, 148; Subador, 149; Lulu Young, 150; Dawson, 153.

Fifth race—One and one-quarter miles, selling. Henry Watterson, 101; Fonso-luck, 102; Flavius, 102; Dr. Heard, 102; Bulwark, 103; Scalplock, 106; Orly II, 107; Big Bow, 111.

Sixth race—Seven furlongs, selling. Foretner, 102; Grand Duchess, 107; Lay-lay, 107; Woodsaw, 109; Lady Ellison, 109; Dargh, 110; Happy Jack II, 110; Chambliss, 119; Leader, 119; Bellindian, 119; Devout, 115.

Weather threatening; track fast.

POTOMACS PLAN
NEW CLUBHOUSE

Oarsmen Negotiating for
Site Selected in Potomac
Park.

After planning the move for a number of years the time now seems to be not far distant when the Potomac Boat Club will vacate the present structure at the foot of Thirty-first street and move to a new home on the water's edge of Potomac Park.

During the past week a delegation of members of the club, following a vote at an earlier meeting, made a trip of inspection through Potomac Park and practically agreed upon the site that would be the most desirable for a new home. While it is not known just where the location is, it is understood that the majority was in favor of a lot on the edge of the Tidal Basin, around which extensive improvements, including the building of the Speedway, have been made during the past five years under the direction of Colonel Bromwell, superintendent of public grounds and buildings.

Think They Can Get It.

One of the local yacht clubs made an effort about a year ago to obtain a site in Potomac Park, on which to build, but was unsuccessful. However, the Potomacs are confident that if other matters can be satisfactorily adjusted, little difficulty will be experienced in getting a lease on a site, even though it might be necessary to put through a special act of Congress.

The whole question of moving depends upon the sale of the present house and lot in Georgetown. Since the club purchased the site years ago the property has increased in value until it is at present considered to be valuable enough to bring sum large enough to construct an entirely new and modern plant at the desired site in Potomac Park. A man in Georgetown has made the club a big offer for the property, but the organization is holding out for an increase.

Expect to Have Dempsey.

Although there are reports afloat that Coach Dempsey is considering offers from a college and several clubs, the Potomacs are quite hopeful of being able to hold their veteran instructor another season. Dempsey did good work in developing the junior eight last spring from green candidates, and during the coming summer with better material he should be able to whip together a really formidable eight. With Fred Platsted at Annapolis again, the races between the local crews will be a test of entirely different coaching styles as well as matches between rival clubs.

Saturday, May 25, George Washington.
Thursday, May 30, Virginia (pending).
Washington American League (pending).

The Georgetown University football schedule for 1907 has been ready now for several days, and with the exception of a few midweek games, is now complete. Last night Manager Joe McLaughlin officially published it.

As was the case last year, Georgetown will play two games with George Washington for the District championship in the latter part of May. Instead of two contests with Yale, as has been the rule for several years, there will be but one next spring. Dartmouth and Columbia are the only two colleges of any importance on the list who were not on the schedule last year.

Prospects Are Bright.

Georgetown's baseball prospects for next season are brighter than ever before in the history of the sport at the Blue and Gray institution. The material at hand, not taking into account that which always comes to light as the season draws near, is excellent, and a team formed from only those who are at first glance eligible for the 1907 nine would be able to hold its own with some of the best that have been turned out by the West End college.

There are nine candidates for pitcher alone. The old men are Cantwell, Mayock, Corcoran, Montgomery, and Ferguson, all of whom made a reputation for themselves last year, and who need no more than casual mention. The new men are Kerr, Wilson, Healy, and Miller. The first named is a Washington boy who is equally good at either first base or in the box. Kerr is a freshman in the law department and is better known perhaps as the man who virtually defeated the George Washington football team last Thanksgiving Day for the District collegiate championship, but is also well known among amateur baseball players of the city, having served on some of the best clubs in this locality.

Veterans Will Be Back.

Maloney and Mudd, the two men who did such good work all last year behind the bat, will be in line in the spring, and are well able to hold their own against the best. Another man who will be out for the backstop position is O'Boyle, the freshman football player. He has yet to show his mettle on the diamond, but reports have it that he will give either of the veterans a run for the place.

The big first baseman, Mahoney, will be greatly missed. Simon, who was center last year, and who was one of the timeliest hitters on the team, and Burns, a freshman, will try to fill the vacancy left by Mahoney. Devins, of the football team, is another formidable man for the place. For second there will be Devlin and Shaffy, the latter an infielder from St. Louis University. There is little or no danger that Captain Smith, who covered third last year, will be ousted from that position, while Scheller, who played fourth last year, will be given either of the veterans a run for the place.

Good Material for Outfield. The left field position is open with Sherman, from Holy Cross Prep School, as the only likely man. Simon, if he does not go first, will retain his old place in the center garden. J. Dugan and Wilson will have the job in right and either should be a valuable acquisition to any college team. The management has not yet selected a coach, and unless a new man is secured in a short time it is more than probable that O'Hara, who did so well with the nine last season, will again have charge of the Georgetown squad.

CORNELL IS TO HAVE ANOTHER HOCKEY TEAM

ITHACA, N. Y., Dec. 15.—The Cornell Athletic Council has authorized the organization of a hockey team at the institution for the coming season. It is two years since there was a team at Cornell. This team played and won two games, one at Syracuse and the other at Rochester, and then was disbanded by the faculty because of mismanagement of the team. The players then the following year are in college: W. E. Rickerson, '07, cover point; H. P. Rober, '08, forward, and R. E. Lally, '08, forward. They will come out to play again.
